THE END AT LAST.

The Convention at Springfield will adJourn either to-day or on Monday, its labors being completed. It has been in session about eighty days. What it has done the people already know too well. What it has left undone will be seen when we get for general circulation. It has certainly character, creating prejudices that are likly to prove fatal. It has been an eye-sore and an annoyance to the people of the Free States from the commencement. The presence of the foul thing is a reproach and a disgrace to the Republic. It lowers our nation in the estimation of foreign powers. Their ministers to this country are sheeked to find, on coming to the American capital, that slavery exists there. It makes our Government appear to the representatives of other nations as but half edvilized, like Turkey or Brazil. It is asvilized, like Turkey or Brazil. It is ased, like Turkey or Braril. tonishing that Congress has tolerated slavery in the District for so many years. Respect for the public opinion of civilized nations, if nothing else, ought to have caused its abstement long ago.

The absolute power of Congress over this subject in the District, is clear and undoubted. The Constitution confers on Congress the authority "to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such District," dee. And unless the power to remove slavery be in Congress, it exists nowhere, which is a proposition that the most higosted doughface will hardly venture to affirm. And the right to abate it as a nulsance is the more obvious when it is seen that slavery has no legal existence in the District, and never had. To sustain it, more than one bousand pine trees have been cut down, their runks drawn from three to four miles, and riven far down into the sand, so that no viclence, either of mad seas or mad men, will be likely to displace them. The largest ships that have yet been there can run up alongside of this pier and discharge their cargoss with almost as much ease as at any of the piers in New York. The structure is worth at least $100,000 to the Government, and will soon yield a saving of several times that sum in the ime of loading and unloading chartered vesals. The work has all been done by Serrell's corps of volunteer engineers, who, during the earlier stages of the enterprise, labored night

THE MESSAGE OF THE PERSIDENT.

The third is based on another consideration

THE MESSAGE OF THE PRESENTATION TO THE BIRTH IS based on another consideration. For the first time the gates of the holy of holice have opened and we have heard a voice from the sanctuary of God. From the Cablent, before which in impressive and utter confidence the nineteen millions of the North point to day, we have heard a voice. It is the message of Abraham Lincoln to the Border States.

I look upan this Message of the President in the light of George Washington's resolution. If is the first voice from the Government—a very pregnant one.

The Anti-Slavery sentiment—and I say it with all due respect—has conquered the Cabinet. (Loud applause.) You here think a great deal of your City of Washingron; you have a right to. But I am one of the people; I some up here from the millions. I look upon you as a rebel camp [laughter]—nothing more. [Renewed laughter.] You are in rebellion against your former masters. The tynists of slavedom have borne sway here for thirty years, and you have now rebelled and driven them out. [Applause.] Thus you are a rebel camp. The question of the hour is whether you have the ability—whether you have the ability—whether you have the ability—whether you have the ability—mether below. and day, Sundays and all.

The recoil of the guns will according by be checked by such an enormous amount of matter that the Monitor, instead of being of limited capacity, is capable of carrying guns of the largest size.

It is estimated that the tax on articles of consumption—such as sugar, tea, spices, meats, soap, oil, etc.,—as proposed in the bill before Congress, will be equal to $7 a year to each person, or $40 for a family of six members. CANANDAIOVA, Ind., March 19th.

DRAR SIR: I would not trouble you for a receipt if it was not for the secession feelings that rule this piace—Douglas Democrats, and Republican dough-faces. It is almost impossible to believe that such things can be. After the battle on the Potomac, where our men were killed to gratify the robel Stone, the secessionists in this place rejoiced, and were so glad in their strength, they would put their hellish designs in operation. So that night, when all honest people were asleep (for their decds were those of darkness in the sight of God and man, they run up the secession flag. If you could have seen some of our ladies the next morning, you would have thought we had some apunk. We gave the men just fire minutes to take that flag down, and they were compiled to do it. The next day Mrs. — came and told me she had "the old flag," and we women would rake that. So she went to work and nottlied the ladies, and then we went and got diamer for our husbands and families and left them to enjoy their meal all alone, while we went to raise the Star Span-[Applause.] He treads as far on the thin ice as he dares to. Let us assure him that the ice is thick, and bid him go ahead. I have traveled through the cities of the North, and I find there is from Democrat, from Oid-Line Whig, from Bell and Evrerett, and from Republican, the same welcome of the President's Message.

I value the Mossage, not because Mr. Abraham Lincoln speaks, for he can neither preserve slavery nor kill it. It does not he in the power of any single individual to do either. It lies in the Government, in the public. He is nothing without the approval and support of the public. What I deaire is, to impress you with a deep conviction of the responsibility which rests upon you as a part of the 10,000,000. Wore cannot expect the President to do this work alone. We are his right hand and his left. How much will you do? He has come out from the Cubinet and held out his hand. To how much will the people respond? I, for one, say, "Go on, old man, I am with you."

THE SCHEME OF THE SLAVEMOLDERS.

It was originally designed by the rebel leaders to be in Washington about the 4th of March, in order to prevent the inagguration of Lincoln, to be President of the United States, and to claim recognition as such. Their object was not to dissolve the Union, but to control it. To leave our little New England out in the cold, and to mold the rest of the Union so as to protect the institution of slavery.

of theery.

When Kentucky and Tennessee said, We would like to go North, what did Davis say? Way, you can't go; we want you. What is this an exhibition of? Why, of their so-called State sovereignty. If South Carolina has a right to go South, why has not Kentucky a right to go North? But the roal meaning is, that they were trying to fortify an idea—trying to defend an institution; they wanted that power, and Kentucky couldn't go. Believe me, this is not a secession movement, but a consultance.

Editors Chicago Tribune:

In your paper dated — you have a paragraph in which you confound names. You state that Thomas Norton, son of the late Marshal of Western Virginis, on a visit from the rebel army to this city, was arrested by the citizens and is now in jad. I have to say that no "Norton" have ever heard of, belonging to my branch of the Norton family, has been known or suspected of being a rebel. I thank God that no drop of my blood rans in the veins of any man who has proven faise to the Nation, at this list hour of need. Office Creah at Chicago Times.
At one o'clock yesterday afternoon a very unexpected estastrophe occurred at the location of the Daily Times, on Bandolph street, near State. The rear building of the office is a large, two-story brick, with a flat, composition roof. It appears that a great quantity of saw, blown from other and higher buildsition roof. It appears that a great quantity of anow, blown from other and higher build-ings, had accumulated on this roof, proved to be too heavy for it, and at the hour above named the central portion, embracing an area of about forty feet, suddenly gave way, and, of about forty feet, suddenly gave way, and, with a tremedous crash, came down into the news-room, demolishing the floor and precipitating cases, racks, tables, "turtles," composing stomes, presses and types into the job-room below. Three small presses—one of them a card-press—were very nearly ruined. The four cylinder press, on which the paper is worked, was in a position where it recieved no injury. The amount of type instantly kneeked into ps, was by no means small, in-

The Time should remember also, that, it is no longer exuriating in Detroit, but has suddenly been transplanted to an atmosphere of another quality, a city of another stamp.

The Embargo of Snow.

The man who went to bed early on Thursday night, and who had not to piod his way through mile upon mile of sidewalk covered knee-deep with snow to reach his home, was a happy fellow. The man who had occasion to be in one portion of the city late on Thursday night, or early on yesterday morning, and whose bed quilts and snuggery were in another part, might be classed as an "unhappy Jere all kinds of weather experiences. First we had it on ice, then embalmed in mud, and now we are smothered in snow. On Thursday the wind vecred around to the Northeast, the drizzling rain of the day previous was congealed and snow commenced to fall-and it continued to fall, as though the heavens had suddenly been transformed into one immense feather bed, and some care-less chambermaid had corristfull of holes and send a choir for this occasion, and the Reuben of unseen angel hands upon us poor mortals below. It is safe to say that between the hours of six r. m. on Thursday, until six a. M. yesterday, there was a fall of a foot of snow in depth, on an average. In places it was there feet in depth. The city all day yesterday was put under re straint by an embryo of snow. The Horse Railway cars stopped before the usual hour on Thursday night, no longer able to cut their way through a coating of the heaviest substance we ever saw that went by the name of snow. Six mules fastened to the snow plow of the Company falled to remove it in the fore-part of the day, and several squads of mea were at once dispatched, to move the encumberance. Of a necessity there was nothing for the conductors to do. As a natural con came "snow blind" and stumbled about loose in their knee joints, to the no small en-joyment of certain regged urchins, who were content to show their estisfaction by pelting

I may say that Mr. Philliph has been engaged on account of his known ability and wide-spread reputation as an elegant and highly accomplished scholar, speaker and lecturer, and not because of his peculiar sentiments as a political. It is assumed by the Committee that the Chicago public desire to have Mr. Phillips, and that has been, in the minds of the Committee, sufficient reason for engaging him to deliver two lectures before the Association. Young Men's Association Election.
Editors Chicago Tribuns:
There has been a third tloket, called the "Anti-Phillips Ticket," put in the field by friends of the opposition ticket. It is a polificial trick and may work well, have in justice to the friends of the regular itocket, and the regular ticket itself, it is proper to say that no member of the regular moniation had anything to do with securing Mr. Phillips to lecture before the Association next week.
Whatever of odlum or credit attaches to the action of the present Lecture Committee, in engaging Mr. Phillips, falls entirely upon the Chairman of that Committee; and members of the regular ticket ought not, in fairness, to lose a single vote by reason of any suspicion of their patriotism through the lecture enregement of Wendall Phillips, about which the little Flot and the Time "that try men's souls," write such fierce squibs.

The writer of this is anthorized to say that the Chairman of that Committee (who is noton any ticket for re-election) is willing to assame the entire responsibility of the transetion.
